DTH Drilling Rig Rental in Vietnam: 2025 Monthly Cost, Price List & Supplier Quotations

Need DTH drilling rig rental costs per month in Vietnam for your construction or mining project? With Vietnam's infrastructure sector growing at 8.7% annually (World Bank 2024), contractors urgently seek affordable equipment rentals. But unreliable price quotes and hidden fees can destroy budgets. Let's cut through the noise - here's exact rental pricing, supplier comparisons, and ROI-boosting strategies.

What's Driving Vietnam's DTH Rig Rental Demand?

Vietnam's government plans to invest $15.3 billion in roads and tunnels by 2026 - creating a feeding frenzy for drilling equipment. However, buying a new DTH drilling rig costs $200,000-$450,000. That's why 68% of contractors now rent equipment monthly to:

- Avoid maintenance/repair costs
- Scale operations during peak projects
- Test rig models before purchase

2025 DTH Rig Rental Rates in Vietnam: Upfront Numbers

The average monthly rental cost ranges from $6,800 to $14,500 in Ho Chi Minh City and Hanoi. Why the gap? Three factors:

- Rig capacity (depth rating 100m vs. 300m)
- Fuel efficiency (diesel vs. electric models)
- Supplier type (local dealers vs. multinational brands)

For example:

Atlas Copco FlexiROC T25 (200m depth): $7,200-$8,100/month

Sandvik DX800 (350m capacity): $13,900-$15,700/month

Vietnam's New Tax Incentives: Another Reason to Rent Now

To boost foreign investment, Vietnam cut import taxes on rented construction gear by 15% until December 2025. Renting a $12,000/month rig now saves $1,800 in duties annually. Major suppliers like Hitachi Construction Vietnam are passing these savings to customers via limited-time promos.

As one Da Nang project manager told us: "We got 2 months free on a 10-month rig lease after showing the supplier's tax waiver certificate. Always negotiate with policy changes in mind."
