Second Hand Drilling Hammer Price in Greece: 2025 Cost List, Quotes & Supplier Deals

Looking for second hand drilling hammer price in Greece? You're not alone. Over 40% of Greek construction companies now buy used equipment to cut costs amid rising project budgets. But how do you find reliable deals without wasting time?

Why Greece's Construction Sector Is Choosing Second Hand Drilling Hammers

New drilling hammers in Greece cost EUR2,500-EUR5,000 per unit. For small contractors, that's a budget killer. Used models sell at 30-50% lower prices - sometimes under EUR1,200 per piece. Last month, a Thessaloniki-based contractor saved EUR8,400 buying six refurbished units through a certified Athens supplier.

Current Market Trends for Second Hand Equipment

Greece's used construction gear market grew 18% in 2024. EU incentives for green building upgrades are driving demand. Key stats:

Average price per piece ranges EUR900-EUR2,300

Popular brands: Atlas Copco, Sandvik, and Boart Longyear

Best deals found in Attica and Central Macedonia regions

How to Buy Second Hand Drilling Hammers in Greece (2025 Price Guide)

Most buyers start with local suppliers but often get better price quotes from cross-border sellers. Here's a real example:

Case Study: Cretan contractor Minoan Builders needed 10 drilling hammers. Local sellers quoted EUR1,800 per unit. After comparing supplier deals on EU marketplaces, they imported from Germany at EUR1,450/unit - saving EUR3,500 total.

3 Steps to Find Your Best Deal

Check machine hours (aim for under 3,000 hours)

Compare ROI between diesel vs. electric models

Ask for VAT-inclusive quotes to avoid hidden fees

Major seller types in Greece:

Local wholesalers: Immediate availability, higher prices

Pan-EU platforms: Lower costs, slower delivery
