Second Hand Screw Diesel Air Compressor Prices in France 2024: Cost Comparison, Quotation & Deals

Why Businesses Are Hunting Affordable Screw Compressors Now

French industrial operators face a 22% surge in new compressor prices since 2022, reports Eurostat. With screw diesel air compressors powering 68% of construction and mining sites, companies seek second hand models to slash costs. A Renault factory in Lyon saved EUR45,000 by buying a reconditioned 375CFM Atlas Copco unit - but fluctuating prices in France make smart buying critical.

Used vs New: What's the Real Cost Gap?

A 2023 market study shows second hand screw diesel air compressors in France cost 30-60% less than new ones. For example:

2021 Kaeser SXD-450 (50HP): New - EUR42,000 | Used - EUR25,000-EUR29,000

2019 Ingersoll Rand XHP1175: New - EUR63,500 | Refurbished - EUR38,900

But maintenance history affects price per piece. Sellers like Paris-based CompAirTrade offer free service records + 6-month warranties.

How to Get Accurate Quotes (Without Scams)

Germany supplies 41% of Europe's pre-owned compressors, but French buyers prefer local suppliers for faster logistics. For reliable quotation:

Request hour-meter certifications (below 4,000 hrs = better ROI)

Check oil contamination test results

Compare transport fees - Marseille importers add 12-18% vs Lille suppliers

Tax Breaks & Market Trends You Can't Ignore

France's 2024 green industry policy gives 15% VAT reduction on eco-upgraded second hand compressors. A Chinese-made Shaanxi PowerTank (rebuilt with EU-compliant filters) now costs 22% less after incentives.
