

Second Hand Solar Drilling Rig for Sale in France 2025: Price List, ROI & Supplier Deals

Second Hand Solar Drilling Rig for Sale in France 2025: Price List, ROI & Supplier Deals

Looking for a second hand solar drilling rig in France? You're not alone. With water scarcity challenges and France's push toward renewable energy - 40% of its electricity now comes from renewables - solar-powered drilling rigs are hot property. But new models cost EUR80,000-EUR150,000. That's why smart buyers hunt used solar rigs for 30-50% savings. Let's break down prices, suppliers, and how to avoid costly mistakes.

Why France's Market Explodes for Used Solar Rigs

France plans to cut groundwater overuse by 35% by 2027 (Ministry of Ecological Transition). Solar rigs let farmers and NGOs drill wells sustainably. But tight budgets push buyers toward pre-owned models. Last year, Marseille-based AgriWater Solutions saved EUR62,000 buying a refurbished 2021 rig - enough to drill 8 extra wells in drought-hit Provence.

2025 Price Trends: What You'll Pay

Expect these ranges for second hand solar drilling rigs in France:

Small 50m-depth rigs: EUR28,000-EUR45,000

Mid-size 150m rigs (most popular): EUR55,000-EUR78,000

Industrial 300m+ rigs: EUR95,000+

German-made rigs like Bauer SolarCutter hold value best - resale prices dropped just 12% since 2020 vs 25% for Chinese models. Always ask for solar panel warranties: replacements cost EUR6,000-EUR9,000.

3 Insider Tips to Lock Down Your Best Deal

- 1) Check the clock hours: Solar rigs average 1,200-1,500 drilling hours before needing major parts. A rig at 900 hours with full service history beats a "low" 400-hour model missing records.
- 2) Verify customs costs: Many French buyers import from Germany or Italy. A EUR60,000 rig could add EUR8,000 in VAT/duties if the supplier hasn't pre-cleared EU free circulation.
- 3) Compare lease vs buy: Lyon's GreenDrill offers 3-year leases at EUR1,200/month (maintenance included) - ideal if you need 10-15 wells annually.
